Dedication

In fond memory of him whom the pupils of the Weymouth High School held in highest esteem and through whose everlasting efforts, wise judgment, and guiding counsel our school thrived and developed during twenty-six years of his leadership, we, the Class of 1938, respectfully dedicate this Reflector to Frederick W. Hilton.

Class Ode

The sails are set, the wind is right,
The pilot boat is standing by.
A voice from heav'n, a beam of light—
"So on! sail on! with banner high."

With crew and captain strong and bold,
Let our hearts forever keep
The store of hope within the hold!
And on! sail on! through channel deep.

Though storms of life may drive us far,
May rend the sails, and snap the mast,
A hidden reef may leave its scar,
Sail on! sail on! till storms are past.

Beyond the clouds the light shows through,
The sea is calm, the waves recede;
For wisdom leads us straight anad true.
So on! sail on! with truth our creed.

Builders of Destiny

Salutatory Address

On this our Graduation Day, we the Class of 1938, extend a cordial welcome to all who are gathered here. Mothers and fathers, we greet you affectionately and hope that in future years we may be worthy of the pride and faith which you have in us to-day.

Mr. Pearson and members of the School Committee, we welcome you who have given us such fine educational advantages during our years in school.

Principal and teachers, we are deeply grateful to you for your patience and understanding in training us to meet courageously the problems of life.

Our large American cities, with their tall skyscrapers and squat tenement houses present a picture of contrast, a picture which reflects man's individuality and freedom. The tall buildings, reaching far into the heavens, are like men searching for something above, something about which they are not quite certain. The squat buildings seem sturdier and more reliable. They are the foundations upon which their more lofty sisters depend. Behind this picture there is a story—the story of men who create, the story of men who build.

Financiers, whose every move is outlined far in advance, have amassed huge fortunes by building step by step. They have become builders by careful planning. The first cave men who accidently discovered fire, were builders. These men were builders by accident. Other men have become builders through necessity. Circumstances beyond their control forced them to build and create. They are builders of destiny.

The need of a strong staple government to replace the Articles of Confederation brought a group of the leading men of the colonies to Philadelphia in the spring of 1787. Congress, under the Articles, had proved inefficient. The currency and credit of the country were worthless at home and abroad. Commerce, among the states and with foreign nations, was hopelessly muddled. The states, like independent nations, levied taxes and collected duties. It was to remedy these ills that the Constitutional Convention had been called. From the chaos of the infant republic these men were destined to build a nation which was to surpass all others and become the greatest democracy in the world.

Foremost among these delegates was George Washington, the father of his country. By the unanimous consent of the members he was elected president of the convention. During the time given to the actual framing of the Constitution, Washington made but one speech. Yet his influence on the delegates was great. Under his careful guidance the Constitution, as we know it, took form. He favored a strong central government and urged the formation of one which would assure this. In later years as President, he laid the basis of our foreign policy in his Neutrality Proclamation. He warned the people to keep out of European affairs, and urged them to love and preserve the Union.

Benjamin Franklin, a delegate from Pennsylvania, was now in his eightieth year, but his mind was still as active as ever. He was the great conciliator of the convention. He accomplished more at one friendly dinner party than the others did in a week of furious debate. On one occasion when the members were becoming overwrought, the good doctor rose and said: "In the beginning of the contest with Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayer in this room for divine protection. Our prayers were heard and graciously answered. And have we now forgotten that powerful Friend, or do we imagine that we no longer need His assistance?" With these stern words, the doctor moved that henceforth the guidance of Heaven be sought every morning before the business of the day began. From that time on, greater harmony prevailed among the delegates.

One of the youngest members was James Madison of Virginia. He earned the title "Father of the Constitution," because of his painstaking work in writing a journal of the daily proceedings. His idea of a government of three departments, Legislative, Executive, and Judicial, with balanced and interdependent powers was adopted by the convention. After the Constitution had been drawn up and submitted to the states, he influenced ratification by the "Federalistic Papers" in which he expounded the advantages of the new government. In later years, as a member of Congress and as President, he placed himself with Jefferson in opposition to Hamilton, a strong Federalist. He believed that the powers of the states should supersede those of the national government. Yet in the War of 1812, which occurred during his administration, he helped to weld the nation together by a spirit of nationalism that lasted until the outbreak of the Civil War.

William Paterson, a delegate from the state of New Jersey, was responsible for the powers given to Congress. His plan provided for one legislature in which each state should have one vote. This was opposed by Edmund Randolph of Virginia, who advocated representation by population. Ultimately the two plans were merged and adopted, providing for two houses in Congress, the upper House, called the Senate, with equal representation, and the lower House or House of Representatives, with popular representation.

The actual writing of the Constitution was given to Gouverneur Morris, a brilliant and witty speaker. During the convention he made over a thousand speeches, and contributed much to the smaller details in the Constitution. After the delegates had signed the document, it was presented to the states for ratification and, in April, 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States.

From the surrounding turmoil and chaos these men moulded a document which exceeded their fondest expectations. It was almost perfect in construction. Yet many people were unwilling to believe in its stability and strength. John Marshall, the great Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, had great faith in the document, and by his interpretation of it gave it life and power. "The government of the Union is emphatically and truly a government of the people. In form and substance it emanates from them. Its powers are granted by them and are to be exercised on them and for their benefit." So wrote John Marshall, proponent of a strong central government and builder of American nationality.

In the case of Martin vs. Hunter's Lessee, Marshall was called upon to make a decision which would establish a precedent for the Supreme Court in future years. The state court of Virginia had ruled that land grants given in the treaty of 1783 might be denied. But Marshall overruled this decision, and declared that the Supreme Court might at any time overrule a state court and uphold its decision by federal troops.

By other cases Marshall fixed the "definition of powers" in the elastic clause, which gives Congress the power "to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers," and gave the Supreme Court the power to interpret laws passed by Congress whenever it is called upon to do so.

When Abraham Lincoln became President in 1861, the country was facing a great crisis. The Southern states were determined to continue the practice of slavery, and declared that the states were stronger than the federal government and could secede from the Union if they so desired. In his first message to Congress Lincoln declared: "The states have their status in the Union, and have no other legal status. If they break from this; they can only do so against law and by revolution. The Union, and not themselves separately, procured their independence and their liberty . . . . The Union is older than any of the states, and, in fact, it created them as states. It is not possible to build an impassable wall between the sections. They must remain face to face."

The Emancipation Proclamation, issued to free the slaves, was the result of the new powers given him by the people in the hope that the country might be reunited. The War for the Union gained great moral strength when it also became a war for liberation. Lincoln, however, would have preferred to save the Union, even in the face of the continued existence of slavery. But when it became evident that the South would make no conciliation, he seized the opportunity and saved the Union by destroying slavery.

In the later part of the nineteenth century, the United States had expanded across the Pacific Ocean. With its new possessions, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Philippines, our Theodore Roosevelt came into office. Roosevelt presented a new type of leader. Disregarding precedent, he extended the powers of the President over the territories to fit the emergency. He restored world peace by mediation, and settled labor disputes by forced arbitration. He reformulated the Monroe Doctrine and extended a virtual protectorate over all Latin America. Roosevelt believed that the laws should be interpreted for the good of the people, and all his acts were influenced by this belief. Beloved by the common people, "Teddy," as he was affectionately called, was the champion of the people, a builder of democracy and freedom for all.

They were not the only men destined to become the builders of this great nation. There have been many others whose names have not been mentioned. Moreover, the age of building still continues. The true significance of the work of men like Woodrow Wilson, Calvin Coolidge, and Franklin D. Roosevelt will be much more apparent in the years to come. In succeeding decades their names must certainly be added to the list.

Meanwhile, the pendulum of time moves surely on. Civilization with its rapid changes offers countless opportunities to whosoever will reach out for them. For us there is this promise. Lives simply fashioned and honestly lived will make us Builders of Destiny.

The Voter — His Duties and Privileges

Valedictory Address

More than a century ago, the great statesman, Henry Clay, observed, "Government is a trust, and the officers of the government are trustees; and both the trust and the trustees are created for the benefit of the people." This statement was true when Henry Clay uttered it; it is true today. Will it be true twenty years from now? That will depend on the voter.

In these troubled times, more than ever before, it is not only a duty and a privilege, but a necessity for our citizens to choose the most capable and honest trustees possible; and under the provisions of our Constitution our people are able to do just this.

The right of voting in the United States is given to most of our citizens twenty-one years of age and over. What potential force lies within this privilege! By a mere cross on his ballot, the voter can choose the man he wishes to control his government; and what is also significant, he can remove those same men from office if he is displeased with their work. The voter, therefore, is the source of the officials' power. The man whom the voter favors has privileges and duties; the man he rejects has none.

Since we are discussing the voter, it would be well to know exactly who the voter is. As social conditions vary in the different parts of the country, the Constitution wisely leaves the suffrage problem to the states. Each state deals with it according to its own peculiar conditions. The Constitution imposes only certain limitations; namely, that a state may not deny suffrage because of race, color, previous condition of servitude, or sex. With these exceptions, the voting privilege is left entirely to the states. Those suffrage conditions vary, but the ability to read and write English is usually required. Whoever votes for his state legislators may also vote in federal elections.

At this point let us examine the National Legislature and its members, the choice of whom rests with the individual voter. This body, commonly known as Congress, is composed of two houses, the house of Representatives, and the Senate. The House of Representatives has a membership of 435, made up of men from all the states of the union. Each state has a definite number of Representatives or Congressmen, chosen according to its population. Each state has at least one Congressmen, and the ratio in 1930 was one Congresmen for 280,674 persons. They serve for terms of two years, and, at the end of that period, must be re-elected in order to remain in office. The members of the House must pass every law which Congress submits to the President, and must themselves originate all bills calling for the raising of revenue.

The plan of the Senate is somewhat different. Every state sends two Senators, so that there are ninety-six in all. They serve for terms of six years and represent their entire state, while the Congressman merely represents the people of his own particular district. Without doubt, the United States Senate is the most powerful assembly of its kind in the world. It, together with the House, passes bills, which are then sent to the President. In addition, this body has the special duty of ratifying treaties and confirming presidential appointments. In short, the Senate must give its consent to practically every major act of the President.

It must be apparent to every thinking voter that our Congress, composed of elected men, wields tremendous power. Therefore, is it not the voter's duty to elect to Congress only those men who will use this power judiciously, who will make laws which are for the best interests of the people? There is not a single Senator or Representative who, if he wishes to hold office for any length of time, must not ask the people whom he represents for their vote.

Let us turn now to the Executive Department, the duty of which is to execute the work of legislation. At the head of this branch, the powerful President of the United States, the most privileged executive in the world, holds office — but only at the pleasure of the voters. The procedure of a Presidential election is different from that of a Congressional one. Members of Congress are elected directly by the people, while the President is elected by the Electoral College, which previously has been selected by the voters.

In addition to controlling Congress and the President, the individual voter indirectly controls the Judicial Department, for both the appointing and confirming of the judiciary are done by elected men. These three departments, the Legislative, the Executive, and the Judicial, are co-ordinate; that is, they work together, and yet they are clearly separate, each performing its functions under the Constitution. Moreover, there is provided a system of checks and balances between them. In a like manner, the individual, through elected representatives may also influence amendments to the Constitution.

To insure the freedom and independent action of the voter, the Constitution, by the Bill of Rights, guarantees to him certain inalienable rights; such as freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, and the right to petition the government.

Who is this highly-privileged, individualized voter? The individual is anyone at all. He may be a leader in finance or a day laborer. The same power is given him. The individual speaks from the whole country; from the woods of Maine, from the great plains of the Middle West, from the high slopes of the Rockies, from the sunny shores of California, and most definitely from our town of Weymouth.

Many of us here to-day have the voting power. How vital it is that we use this great privilege wisely, for the whole system of American government rests on the ballot box. In the present crisis of world affairs, it is of the greatest importance that we have sound governmen in this country. For sound government, we need the right sort of men, and it is our duty as voters to elect them. Let us remember then, when election time comes, that the government of the United States is "the people's government, made for the people, made by the people, and answerable to the people."

Mothers and fathers, it is impossible for us to repay you for the fine start in life you have given us. We are grateful beyond all measure, and we hope that we will live up to your fondest expectations.

Mr. Pearson and members of the School Committee, we wish to express our appreciation for the fine schools with which you have provided us. We know we have had the best possible preparation for the future.

Principal and teachers, we shall never forget your sympathetic understanding of our probems, your unfailing assistance and your friendly spirit toward us all. Please accept our most sincere thanks.

Classmates, to-day we step from the protection of Weymouth High School into a world of opportunities. We are, indeed, fortunate to be living in the United States, where we have a strong and stable government. Let us prove that a well-ordered government, based on the rights of the people and supported by a sense of duty of the people, can exist in the midst of discordant nations. As we steer our ship of fortune through storm and sunshine toward the port of our dreams, let us ever keep before us those inspiring words of our motto — "On! Sail on!"

FIRST CRUISE—September, 1934—June, 1935

Skipper: Mr. Hilton

Mate: Mr. Whittle

Wind: Blustery

Weather: Heavy Fog

Barometer: Low and Falling Rapidly

Temperature: Lowest on record (according to seniors)

Port: Freshman Harbor

Destination: Sophomore Isle

We're off! The excitement of embarking toward our ultimate goal of Port Senior, the new schedule of sea life, and occasional rough waters kept us well occupied for some time. A few were attacked by seasickness, especially during our first exam week in October, but by Christmas we had all found our sea legs.

What seemed at first to be rioting in the boiler room turned out to be the crew's approval of the athletic policy which gave the football team, under Mr. Kilroy, its first successful season in years.

On November 9 the new hands, class of '38, were given a party by the senior members on A deck. There were entertainment, dancing, and, most important, refreshments. What an appetite salt air gives one!

The Skipper informed us that the Student Council Dance would be held in the main salon. Music was most successful.

The Herald-Traveler Company sponsored spelling bees, in which our champion, David Ward, showed that he knew his knots.

An operetta, "The Mascot," was performed in the main lounge to aid the Athletic Association. The title role was admirably played by Barbara Kelso, '38.

The senior members of the crew presented "Minick," with Don Foskett and Arlene Price playing the leads.

A Marconigram informed us of an explosion in Weymouth Landing, our home port.

After a hazardous passage, the ship finally docked at Sophomore Isle. The crew was given a two month's leave to prepare for the difficult voyage to the pleasanter and nobler Bay of Juniors.

SECOND CRUISE—September, 1935—June, 1936

Skipper: Mr. Hilton

Mate: Mr. Whittle

Wind: Shifting

Weather: Stormy

Barometer: Rising

Temperature: Moderate

Port: Sophomore Isle

Destination: Bay of Juniors

Heave ho, m'hearties. We're off for another sail.

All hands turned to for a lecture on Honolulu in the auditorium on the main deck.

During October and November we cast anchor in the harbors of Milton, Abington, Belmont, Whitman, North Quincy, Dedham, Plymouth, and Hingham, for our annual football rivalries. The crew, therefore, enjoyed a banquet in the mess hall, which they relished after ship's rations and lime juice for two months.

Anchors aweigh again! And this time it's a long run before a brisk wind. The midshipmen sponsored a varsity dance in their own quarters. Some of those "jolly tars" certainly could step!!

A leave of absence was granted for the Christmas holidays after which we're off to cruise "down the trades." A few days out, the Student Council put on an amateur show in the captain's quarters on B deck.

The officers of the ship presented a play in the Auditorium on the main deck, entitled "What Every Woman Knows." Mates Daniel Johnson and Alice Guertin took the leading roles. The play was coached by Mrs. Flora H. McGrath, and all hands enjoyed the performance.

Shortly afterward the crew was greatly amused by a performance of the Tatterman Marionettes, called "Jason and the Golden Fleece."

All hands turned out for a dance sponsored by the Athletic Association, which was held in the main ballroom on A deck.

The annual operetta, named "Who Discovered America?" (Shiver me timbers! Everyone knows the answer to that!) ran for two nights, and was a great success. The principals were: Barbara Kelso, William Burgess, William Jacobson, Emery Custance and Arline Stockford.

We laid to at Club Island, to give interested crew members an opportunity to enroll in the various organizations there.

The feminine members of our crew presented their annual exhibition in the girls' gym on C deck. Some of our girls are just as able seamen as the boys.

The upperclassmen this year gave "Big-Hearted Herbert" as the Senior play. Leads were played by Gilman Fernald and Barbara Merrick.

Land ho! Here we are, at the end of our voyage, with the waters of the Bay of Juniors shinning in the sun. Everything has been left shipshape, and we are off to enjoy our leave!

THIRD CRUISE—September, 1936—June, 1937

Skipper: Mr. Hilton
First Mate: Mr. Whittle
Wind: Steady
Weather: Sultry
Barometer: High
Second Mate: Harry Botterud
Third Mate: Fred Allan
Temperature: Warm
Port: Bay of Juniors
Destination: Port Senior

Running before balmy winds, we once again glided smoothly forth into unknown seas.

In the fall our football team, with hundreds of the crew, obtained shore leave. With Albert DiLorenzo and Robert Pirie as our co-captains we were able to win the State Class-B Championship. Fourth classmen were given sweaters at a banquet held in the saloon.

On a rough, stormy day the crew gathered in the Skipper's cabin and elected the following officers:

Captain: Harry Botterud
Mate: Fred Allan
Quartermaster: Ruth Murray
Supercargo: Elizabeth Hearn

Swinging to the rhythm of Jed Emery's Orchestra, we held the annual Victory Ball. We were joined by our opponents' crew, and for a few hours rivalry was forgotten and a friendly feeling reigned. Our sea legs stood us in good stead here!

The Musical Revue, truly Parisian in atmosphere, was presented on the main deck on March 12. We didn't know we had such singers. Why don't people tell us these things?

Under the leadership of fourth classman Robert Pirie, our basket-"tars" (we couldn't resist it!) came through nobly.

With timbers creaking, third classmen gathered to hold their annual party. "Seven bells and all's well!" rang out once again!

I guess we showed those fourth classmen something! Katherine Coyle, a third classman, represented the crew at the finals of the Herald Traveler Spelling Bee in Boston.

Our bos'ns put on a play entitled "Three Wise Fools." A large audience was aboard that night to enjoy the play.

We tars (as big as we think we are) still enjoy marionette shows, for we were rolling in the aisles, when the Tatterman Marionettes came aboard once more to present Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

Fourth classmen presented "Sun Up" on the main deck, and we underclassmen realized that night the wonderful talent that the fourth classmen had.

Ah! the irony of fate! Although we had spent a strenuous year aboard the S. S. Steel Pier bound for Provincetown. The sea, the sea, the wonderful sea! We can't resist it even on our outing!

'Twas a tough voyage, all in all, but we passed the whole year with nary a threat of mutiny. With our goal but one short year ahead, we took our last shore leave.

Third Mate: Fred Allan

Wind: Calm

Weather: Unhealthful — seniorities in the air.

Barometer: New high — ready for a drop.

Temperature: Feverish—thermometer broke.

Port: Senior

Destination: Unknown

The good old Weymouth 1938 again broke anchor and squared away for the last leg of its four year voyage. Harry Botterud was at the wheel, and Fred Allan stood by to relieve him at any time. Things were not the same as usual. During the shore leave, Mr. Frederick W. Hilton, our beloved skipper, had passed away. He had given twenty-six years of his valuble services to the good ship, and we shall all miss his kind and faithful friendship. Mr. Whittle has been promoted to the office of Skipper.

We were driven along handsomely by a brisk wind during the first two months of our cruise. The main event during this time was the annual party October 22, to which the fourth class seamen invited the midshipmen.

From late September to Thanksgiving day, we made stops at many different ports. At each port our football team, led by co-captains, Harry Botterud and Stan Lukis, made a wonderful showing, coming out on top with the South Shore Championship. The band also did a grand piece of work under the direction of Mr. Calderwood and Mr. Ghiorse. On December 9, when we were again on the high seas, a banquet was held in the mess hall in honor of our team. All the fourth-class seamen who were members of the team received sweaters, as did Mr. Calderwood, who has faithfully trained the band.

Before docking at St. Nick's island, the fourth classmen held a Christmas party in the ship's gymnasium. The high-lights of the evening were the "stunts" put on by various groups. A style show of women's apparel put on by the "gobs" from the "212" watch "took the cake."

Favorable winds were with us for the next few months. The Athletic Council held a most successful dance on January 14. On February 16, the training officers gave their annual play, "Craig's Wife."

February 16, proved to be a sorrowful day for many of us. The funeral of Mrs. Barnard, one of our officers for many years, was held. February also saw the election of a new quartermaster, Eva Doyle.

Our basketball team should be given special credit for their splendid work. This was the first year that any team from the "Weymouth" had received an invitation to the M. I. T. basketball tournament.

In April the remaining fourth-class committees were elected, and Arthur Vinal was chosen Bos'n.

The class highlights got off to a rather late start, owing to a complete change in weather which left us becalmed for nearly two months. All agreed that it was worth waiting for, however, when the Senior Prom was held April 29 in the main ballroom. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight with music furnished by Walter Leavitt and his orchestra. On May 20 and 21 the operetta, "Trial By Jury" was presented. The evening of June 10 gave the fourth classmen an opportunity to show their talents. The play, "Spring Dance," was given along with many stunts and specialty numbers.

CAPTAIN'S NOTATION:

On June 23, 1938 the clear waters of the Sea Life opened before the "Weymouth" 1938. The engines were stopped, the sea anchors lowered; and, the records have been consulted, barometers read, and bearings taken, the fourth classmen of the "Weymouth" marched solemnly forth and received their papers, after which they were lowered away, each in his own dinghy, to set his own course into the Unknown.

THE LOG OF THE S. S. VOCATIONAL

FIRST CRUISE

Captain: Mr. Whipple

Cruising down the Atlantic seaboard, on the S. S. Vocational, we struck a storm on Monday, September 9, 1935, and sighting a group of islands off the starboard side, we landed.

A short while after making port we gained the friendship of the native seniors. Liking our company so much, they invited us to attend a party given in our honor on Friday, October 4.

In November we were all surprised by the acquistion of a Model 8 Linotype, by the Printing Department of the Island Government, for use in producing their magazine, The Reflector.

On Monday, December 30, our ship was honored by having our Agriculture boys take first place in a state-wide competition.

Under the direction of the island authorities, Mr. Whipple, Mr. Swan, and Mr. Duncan, a group interested in the graphic arts trade viewed the annual Tileston & Hollingsworth Calendar Review sponsored by the Boston Club of Printing House Craftsmen.

Our automobile-minded travellers saw the much talked of '36 models, when a number of them journeyed to the Boston Automobile Show.

On May 6, our craftsmen of the printing trade toured the newspaper plant of the Herald-Traveler and the Ginn & Company book concern of the island, and learned how newspapers and books are produced.

In June we watched with a great deal of interest the ceremonies of the native Seniors. Pictures were being exchanged, clothes were being discussed, prospective jobs were looked into, until on the eventful day a solemn line of seniors marched up to receive their diplomas.

After watching the seniors disappear, we once more embarked on our cruise of the high seas.

SECOND CRUISE

Captain: Mr. Whipple

After cruising the high seas for two months, we sighted an island on Wednesday, September 9. Its calm and peaceful bays drew us toward it.

Upon landing we were met by a group of natives who seemed very willing to make our friendship. The natives were divided into two classes. Half of them seemed to be very shy; the other half, very forward, with an air of confidence about them.

We noticed with a great deal of interest the desire of the forward natives to bring the shy natives into their circle. On Friday, October 16, with refreshments, entertainment, and dancing, the shy natives were rounded up and initiated into the higher fraternity.

In March, under the auspices of the Island government, our printing-minded craftsmen toured the Morrill Ink Works, and the Norwood Press at Norwood, where the actual making of ink and textbooks was seen.

With Mr. Sherwood's aid a large number of the tourists went to the "Open House" of the Worcester Trade School: where a great variety of the trades were inspected.

On Thursday evening, April 22, a gala performance was put on by the island officicials and their subjects. At exercises in the assembly hall the tourists were shown moving pictures of the island government's work. From the exercises in the hall the travelers went to the exhibition of the Project Works Department where the actual performance of the work could be seen.

Before embarking on the third and final leg of our journey, we took a short cruise to the tip of the island, where historic Provincetown is situated.

Weighing anchor once more, we departed from the native island for a two months cruise on the open seas.

THIRD CRUISE

Captain: Mr. Whipple

First Mate: Ian Weir

Second Mate: Robert Hippler

Quartermaster: Francis Nadell

On September 8 the S. S. Vocational anchored in the Bay of Brockton, just off the Island of Industry. Officers and crew attended the fair held on the island. Among the interesting exhibits visited was one sponsored by our own ship. We displayed specimens done by our Graphic Arts travellers, carpenters and auto mechanics.

In October we gained the friendship and admiration (?) of the midshipmen at the annual acquaintance party.

In November the Island Government elected the following officers: Ian Weir, President; Robert Hippler, Vice-President; Francis Nadell, Secretary-Treasurer.

On December 23rd a Christmas Party was held under the direction of the government authorities. The natives were entertained by a variety of dramas and musical specialties.

In April our Printing-minded travellers toured the Christian Science Monitor and the Tileston & Hollingsworth Paper Mill, where a further knowledge of newspaper output and paper manufacture was gained.

In April under the direction of our Graphic Arts Instructor, Mr. Harry F. Duncan, a placement department was organized on board the S. S. Vocational. In order to relieve Mr. Duncan of some of his duties, an assistant was obtained who is well versed in his trade, Mr. Otto H. Mahn.

At the time of this change the ship is surprised by the addition of a Sheet Metal Course, under the supervision of Mr. Harold E. Clarke, for all the travellers who wish to broaden their intellect in this trade.

On April 29 the whole ship's body gathered on the main deck and held a Semi-Formal dance to the Music of Walter Leavitt's Orchestra.

The Island Government, in an endeavor to show the populace its project works, sponsored an Exhibition. At the "Open House," the natives were shown the type of work carried on by their authorities; such as, the complete overhauling of a motor vehicle, the printing of all Government Paper, and the building of school cabinets. Guiding blue prints for these were furnished by the Mechanical Drawing division.

On June 10, the annual fourth-classmen's play, "Spring Dance," was successfully produced. Running true to our course through tempestuous seas, we sighted our destination on June 23. Sowly and solemnly, we marched down the gangplank, our cruise completed.

Prophecy

What better time than a day in June for a sail on the ocean! The wind lashed my cheeks and whipped my hair as I stood watching the water rise and fall. Great waves broke against the boat, and sent huge sprays to the side. Swell after swell was left behind as we ploughed towards our destination. "On! Sail On!" Looking in the distance, I began to study the beauty of the heavens. The deep blue of the sky, dotted here and there by moving white clouds, slowly blended with the sea in a scarcely discernible line.

Suddenly my view was obstructed by a haze that became thicker and hung like a veil before me. I was puzzled until I realized it was a mirage, a phenomenon we had studied in our physics class. As I watched eagerly, a panorama spread before me and I gradually recognized my classmates, now greatly changed. Carefully scrutinizing each one who passed, I saw a mirage of the future.

LOUIS ABRUZESE

Louie's smile has won him great acclaim. He poses for the smile on labels marked "Poison."

ESTHER ADUKONIS

Esther spends her spare time dancing and taking long walks in North Weymouth.

FREDERICK ALLAN

Freddie seems to have achieved the height of success. He has established a way to facilitate labor troubles by building dummy pickets for use on strikes.

ALFRED AMIRAULT

Sonny is travelling incognito in search of the gentleman that moved into his house.

DORA ANTONETTE

Dora's wavy hair is responsible for her success as Coiffure Stylist in Hollywood.

JUNE ARCHIBALD

We have just received word that June is to be named United States district judge in southern New York.

PAULINE AUCOIN

Pauline has started a "Tell You Who" department. She answers all questions for, Who? What? Where?

JOSEPHINE AUSTIN

Last year Joe won the Swimming Championship in the Olympics. She got her training at Wessagnssett Beach.

NANCY BARKER

We haven't seen much of Nancy lately. She has been conducting student tours through Europe.

JEAN BARNARD

Jean is now a commercial artist for the "Tasty Pasty" Breakfast Food Company. They say she can't seem to put her soul into her work.

ROGER BARRY

Rog realized his ambition when he became sports editor of the Ledger. Now he can write his own scores.

MARY BATES

Mary has found her life work at last, as a teacher of Domestic Science in W. H. S.

HERBERT BAUER

Herbert has started a florist shop and sells orchids to the Boston debutantes.

WILLIAM BAULIS

Bill is an expert machinist at the Fore River Ship Yard —still trying to get a-head.

ROBERT BEANE

Bob is a man-about-town, still breaking all the girls' hearts.

PHYLLIS BENNETT

Do not forget to tune in to station W.X.Y. every Thursday Night. Phyllis has taken over Kate Smith's program.

MARY BERRY

Using diplomacy, Mary has now talked the natives of Kalnka Isle to invest in the "U-Die-We-Do-the-Rest" Life Insurance Company.

SUMNER BICKFORD

Sumner is a big business man. He has perfected an invention for his employer which, he claims, guarantees punctuality.

SHIRLEY BICKNELL

Shirley has just won the six day bicycle race. She got her practice riding to Nantasket and back while at Weymouth High.

GERALD BLACKBURN

Gerry is one of America's foremost artists. His skill drawing football heroes marked the beginning of his rise to fame.

MARTIN BORAKS

Martin is playing first trumpet in the Philadelphia Sympathetic Orchestra.

Twin careers as artist and sculptress have brought international fame to Betty.

MAYNARD CARTER

"Mayonaise" spends all his time riding around in a Rolls Royce, as chalfeur to Mr. A. Million.

HARRIET CATE

Harriet has become owner and operator of a large gum establishment. She is blissfully happy knowing she can chew as much as she wants with no one to stop her.

ALBERT CAVALLO

Al, due to his agricultural training at Weymouth High, has blossomed out on his own, crossing a hen with an eggbeater, so that the eggs come all scrambled.

AGNES CHEYNEY

Agnes has her own beauty shop, where she specializes on keeping blonde hair golden.

WALTER CHEVERIE

Walter's variety store in North Weymouth is doing very nicely and is well patronized by all the school children.

MARTHA CHIPMAN

Martha always had towering ambitions and is now a well known aviatrix. Her latest flight was to the North Pole and back.

HARRISON CHUBBUCK

Chub has joined the U. S. Army Force and has attained the rank of Squadron Commander.

JOSEPH CIRIGLIANO

Joe is the up and coming wrestler whose next match will be for the world championship.

ROBERT CLAIN

Bob, modest shrinking violet that he is, has just been elected President of the United States.

ROBERT CLAPP

Skinny is now with the Mounted Police. He grew to be six feet tall from shooting long shots in basketball for W. H. S.

JOHN CLARK

This "smooth" gentleman may be engaged any night, except Saturday, (Braintree calls on Saturday) for instructions in dancing at "Smoothly Glide Academy".

MARTHA CLARK

The vivacious blonde you see working in Filene's department store is Martha. She's in charge of the bundle wrappers now.

ISOBEL CLAWSON

Isobel has become famous with the publication of her new book, "A Bashful School Girl."

MARJORIE CLAYTON

Margie is heard on the radio daily as assistant commentator to Lowell Thomas.

FLORENCE COE

Flo is a housewife and settled comfortably in a rose covered cottage in East Weymouth.

HARVEY COLE

Harvey's newest invention, a shovel with a collapsible seat and arm rest for the greater comfort of W.P.A. workers, has recently been patented in Washington.

GERALDINE COLLIGAN

At last we have the first woman President in the person of Geraldine. She always did have executive ability.

ELEANOR COMEAU

Eleanor is still "Bobbing" around town as fond of parties as ever.

FLORENCE CONDRICK

After completing training in Normal School, Florence is back teaching mathematics at W. H. S.

ANNA CONNELL

Now Anna can talk as much as she wants. She is the teacher of grade four, and has installed self-filling ink wells in all the desks.

LOUISE CONROY

Louise, an extremely competent secretary, has become an expert in a Terpsichorean way.

WINNIFRED CORBETT

Winnie is now in Hawaii teaching the natives how to play the guitar. She will soon be home again with her all-Hawaiian band.

PAULINE COREY

Polly finds that the customers of her dress shop are more tolerant than the teachers of W. H. S. were. They don't object to her talking or her giggling.

GEORGE COSTELLO

George has set aside his ring trunks and battle-scarred boxing gloves and turned away from his ring career, secure in the knowledge that he has achieved his life-long ambition — he obtained a fresh piece of gum from a penny slot machine.

KATHERINE COYLE

Katherine is one of the leading authorities on spelling in the country. She perfects her giggling during spare moments.

JAMES CRAIG

Jimmie has recently returned from Kentucky, where his horse, Ina, won the Derby.

VIOLET CROWDER

The quiet girl of 212 is advancing as a private secretary. During spare moments she is writing "The Art of Being Silent".

RITA CULLIVAN

Rita has finally revealed her secret. She is teaching others how to smile, especially at 8:30 in the morning.

HELEN CURRIER

Helen has a Physical Cultural School of her own. She advises her students to take night walks across bridges.

FLORENCE DALY

Floxsy is still spending her time learning to drive. We wonder if it's the teacher. What about it, Florence?

NATALIE DAVIS

Natalie is such a perfect stenographer that her employer has become a perfect business man.

VINAL DEAN

Dean is a crooner in a local night club. We have reason to believe it's in Braintree.

JAMES DEMPSEY

Jimmy is the owner of a new drugstore in Weymouth Landing, a successor to Liggett's. As a sideline he debates on "The Present Economic Condition."

ARTHUR DESMOND

Art owns a large theatre on Boston's most exclusive (or is it excluded?) corner. Incidently, he's a "reel" guy.

GERARD DIVINE

Jerry is a barker for Ringling Brothers Circus. Sometimes he doubles for the tall man.

JAMES DILLON

Jim is a civil engineer. He has an office high up in the Custom House Tower, where he can watch the sailboats in the moonlight.

EDITH DINSMORE

Edith has a chain of restaurants, and personally superintends all the cashiers. She received her training at Weymouth High.

ETHEL DINSMORE

Ethel is still working in Weymouth High. She organized a new course on the training of office secretaries.

JOHN DIZER

John is a close rival of Nelson Eddy in Hollywood, and we notice his leading lady is still one of the twins.

MARJORIE DOBLE

Marge is in Hollywood, competing for the role of Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind".

GEORGE DONOVAN

George is still making up time after school in W. H. S. Now, he hires witnesses to prove that he has stayed.

EVA DOYLE

Shorty has joined many other women in a worthy ambition — heart breaking.

DOROTHY DUCEY

Dot has become a newspaper reporter, and is at present engaged as war correspondent at the front in China.

VERONICA DULKA

Veronica has at last found excitement she craved in W. H. S., as night club hostess on Broadway.

EMMA DUNBAR

Emma is now wearing white and is superintendent of nurses in the Bellevue Hospital, New York City.

MARGUERITE DURGIN

Peg has become a financial banker who loans nickels to those who forget their lunch money.

DOROTHY DWYER

Between watching her favorite baseball player and avoiding school, Dottie is overburdened with cares.

ROBERT ELSNER

Bob has become the most distinguished opera critic in the United States. He is about to write a symphony, which he might entitle "Hildorette".

BARBARA FILES

Babs husband, we hear, has invented a new front seat for automobiles, — one that can be raised and lowered, for Babs has become very tall.

MADELINE FITZGERALD

Chief contender for the crown once worn by Eleanor Powell is none other than our own Madeline.

CARMELLA FOGARTY

Pat is head instructor of the English Department of Hyperbole College. She has recently written the best seller "Antonym Adverb" explaining her work to the public.

RUTH FOLEY

Ruth did so well the week she worked at the Gazette that she is now a regular employee there.

BRADFORD GARDNER

As an art collector J. B. is the best, if one were to judge by the pieces he used to bring to W. H. S.

LOUISE GARDNER

Louise has won international fame as a grand opera singer. She showed great promise while a student of W.H.S.

MARJORIE GARDNER

We hear that Marge has been appointed librarian of the Congressional Library in Washington.

ELEANOR GARRITY

Bebe is a prominent society lady, a leader of the "Four Hundred" of North Weymouth.

ALBA GATTO

Al is now the owner of Al's Restaurant as the result of her experience at W.H.S. Cafeteria.

RAYMOND GEEVER

If you should see a very handsome orchestra leader in the movies, you may be sure it's Ray. You see we "knew him when"!

SCOTT GEORGE

Scott, the leading United States explorer and adventurer, is the author of several fascinating accounts of his own exploits.

EDWARD GIFFORD

Giffie is a millionaire now. He made all his money writing best-sellers but prefers to live at Lovell's Corner because of the "artistic atmosphere".

MARJORIE GIFFORD

Margie is now making a tour of the United States with a popular typewriter company, explaining to the public how she gained the title of the "world's fastest woman typist."

KENNETH GILLIS

Kenny is now a construction engineer. He is building a bridge between Weymouth and Hingham.

MARY GLOSTER

In her spare time, Mary is a book critic. She always recommends a book that has "red" in it.

RICHARD GLYNN

Dick has become the country's outstanding pole-vaulter.

MARJORIE GOODWIN

Margie entertains weekly at Red Pier featuring one of her own songs entitled "Hello, Joe."

RALPH GOODWIN

Ralph, a mechanical expert, has invented a shock-proof car made of soft rubber. The only thing wrong is that it won't stand up.

VIRGINIA GRANT

Virginia's favorite hobby is reading. She is very much contented since she has been appointed head librarian at the Tufts Public Library.

KENNETH GRAY

Ken is going to write a new history text book with no questions at the end of each chapter.

JOAN GREEN

Joan may be reached anywhere in Europe, where she is now travelling.

MARGARET GREGORY

Marg is a popular hostess who attracts customers from far and near. We wonder why she chose Cohasset.

MARTIN GRIFFIN

When a street cleaner that looks familiar goes by, it will be Marty. He's looking for "Easy Street."

EVELYN GRILLO

Evelyn is still showing her efficiency as secretary to the Secretary of State at Washington.

WILLIAM GUNN

Bill is "getting a kick" out of life. He is football instructor at Dartmouth College. When the football suits get dirty, he has the scrub team "scrub" them just for practice.

CHARLES HALL

Here is a man, a true specimen of masculinity, who is known on the wrestling mat as "Killer Hall." He learned how to grunt and groan from his experiences in 216.

PHYLLIS HALL

Phyl is definitely established in the business world, selling hand-made shoes.

VERA HAMILTON

Due to Vera's four years' training of her vocal cords—I wonder where—she has become a Weymouth telephone operator. Now her vocabulary is limited to "Number, please."

JAMES HARRINGTON

"The Smoke Shovellers" have a new manager for their baseball team. It's Hank, of all people!

MILDRED HART

Millie has the patience of Job. All these years she has not once lost her temper as she labors at the "Slap-it School of Tap."

ARTHUR HAVEY

Chick has become a star shortstop on the Red Sox. He is also the official collector of tonic bottles after the games.

GEORGE HAVILAND

George is now making a tour of Europe with his own orchestra. He has made himself famous with his "Georgipation"—a new type of rhythm that has taken the world by storm.

BETTY HEARN

Betty has attained her ambition. She is a secretary to an explorer whose hobby is hunting "Bob" cats.

EDWARD HENLEY

Would that track requirements had provisions for a one man track team! Ed would take the prize.

JEAN HICKEY

We all look forward with interest, from day to day, to Jean's column in the Globe. She's now the country's leading beautician.

ROBERTA HIGGINS

Ra is working as stenographer for the Wiukum Co. It is rumored that soon she will be transferred from the office to the home of the owner of the firm.

HERBERT HILL

Herbie is down in Virginia, sitting up straight behind a typewriter in the office of Steeves and Co.

CYNTHIA HILLIARD

Cynnie has her own candy store. Have you ever tried any of "Cynnie's Sweets"?

MINOT HALLEBROOK

Red is making use of the experience he received at W. H. S. working with a local department store as head floor walker.

ANNE HOWE

Anne is in charge of the Lending Library in Winthrop, Massachusetts.

THERESA HUGGETT

Theresa has become a great movie star in the technicolor films.

MARY HUGHES

A prominent lawyer is very much pleased with his helpful assistant and secretary.

ARTHUR HUNT

A new idea has just been placed on the market by Professor of Agriculture Hunt. He plants potatoes and then drives a steamroller over the patch. He sells his mashed potatoes for plenty of "dough."

FRANCIS HUTCHINSON

Hutch who is still in the National Guard, has been promoted again. He is now a second private.

ROBERT HYLAND

Bob has gathered a fortune with his invention of a pencil without lead. "No mistakes can be made," says Bob.

STANLEY JACKSON

Stan after years of fruitless research has at last arrived at the long-sought-for but never-before-attained formula for a squirtless grapefruit.

RUTH JACOBSON

Have you read Ruth's latest book, "The Life of a Private Secretary?"

ESTHER JOHNSON

Esther, poor girl, still sees double and nothing can be done about it. Yet when this worry becomes too great, she can be seen any Sunday afternoon walking through the streets of Weymouth on the arm of a certain cherished one—Who is this person?

SIGNE JOHNSON

Signe has a two-in-one job. We find her behind a desk in a well-known tooth paste company.

CLYDE JONES

Clyde has taken "Lucky" Teter's place in the automobile world, as a test driver for General Motors. He puts the cars through their paces at Second Point.

MERRILL JORDAN

Many startling discoveries have been made recently by Merrill, who is a research chemist for a large rubber company.

MARY JOYCE

Mary is the editor of a leading Boston newspaper. Her inspiration, she told us recently, was our own Reflector.

MARY KAHLER

Mary is modeling for I. J. Fox Company.

MARGARET KEEFE

Peg is now an assistant to Arthur Murray, dance instructor. She teachers the girls how to recognize a good lead and follow it.

RUTH KEEFE

Ruth is now owner of a roller skating rink in Weymouth. A certain young man from Quincy is often seen there.

ELIZABETH KEEGAN

Betty "swings" through the air with the greatest of ease." She is a trapeze artist with the Barnum and Bailey Circus.

EDMUND LOCKARY

Ed is involved in the intricacies of mathematics and is working in collaboration with Professor Warren Loud in solving the fourth dimension.

WARREN LOUD

Warren is now professor of mathematics at M. I. T. He got his early experience helping the less intelligent members of IV A 3.

LLOYD LOVELL

Lloyd has received recognition for his wonderful work as a farmer. He has been given the title of "Luther Burbank the Second."

STANLEY LUKIS

Stan is still playing football. He's now an All-American player, coming through with flying colors.

EVELYN LUCIANO

Evelyn is the shining example of a girl who's made good. She married the boss's son.

ELIZABETH MacDONALD

Beth has made a fortune as the exclusive manufacturer of the MacDonald Lolly Pops on sale at all school cafeterias.

ELSIE MacDONALD

Elsie has used her previous dramatic experience and risen to the top in the theatrical world. We wonder who her leading man is now.

NORMA MacDONALD

Norma is a stenographer with a large shipping house in Boston. She is able to take dictation at such a rapid pace that soon she will be the head of the sales letter department.

FRANK MacDOUGAL

Einstein's shoes have been capably filled by our own Mac. He is wild about the quadratic formula. He says it's divine.

LAWRENCE MacFAWN

Larry is a stunt man in Hollywood, who does all his stunting in airplanes. We hope he has a charmed life.

WILLIAM MacCLELLAN

Bill has inherited his dad's camera, and can frequently be seen taking snapshots in snappy shorts.

RUTH MacKAY

Anyone looking forward to a very capable teacher of the violin, please contact Ruthina Mackayski and you will be more than satisfied.

The Frederick W. Hilton Scholarship

The Weymouth High School Alumni Association has recently established an Honor Scholarship of Fifty Dollars in memory of Frederick W. Hilton, Principal of the Weymouth High School from 1911 to 1937.

No more fitting tribute could be shown to the memory of Mr. Hilton, educator, counsellor, and friend of the hundreds of pupils whose privilege it was to come under his leadership.

The Executive Board of the Alumni Association has decided to grant the scholarship to that one pupil of each graduating class who has proved by scholarship, character, personality and leadership to be outstanding in his class, and who thus possesses, in part, these same characteristics which Mr. Hilton displayed in his admiration of the Weymouth High School.

This is the one scholarship offered in which the financial need of the recipient is not considered, as it is purely an honor scholarship.

Reflector Staff

The Reflector Staff of the past year has sincerely endeavored to produce a paper of which our school might be proud. We have tried to make the range of our material as wide as possible in order that the whole school might be represented.

As in other years, there have been four publications of the Reflector in addition to the year book.

The regular meetings of the Southeastern Massachusetts League of School Publications have been attended by members of our staff. On May 18, 1938, the Reflector had the pleasure of entertaining the staffs of the other school papers of the league.

We hope that we have not failed in our efforts to bring to you, the students of Weymouth High School, an enjoyable and instructive paper. We realize also how completely fruitless our endeavors would have been without the aid of Mr. Brown and the co-operation of our teachers, to whom we are extremely grateful.

In leaving, we wish the utmost success to those who will continue the Reflector work and may they find therein true pleasure.

First row: David Sjostedt, Elizabeth Young, David Brewer. Second row: William Burgess, August Calen, Alton Blanchard, John Dizer.

Operetta and Revue

This year the High School combined an operetta and revue. The "Revue" began with the scene, "Will You Remember?" from "Maytime." Louise Gardner and August Calen beautifully harmonized the duet, with the Glee Club supporting them in the chorus. The most effective parts of this scene were the balet dance by Betty Dizer, and the group of eight waltzing couples dressed appropriately.

"Teddy" Beal and Helen Crawford did a splendid novelty tap dance which was followed by a reading given by Ruth Gillis.

The band then played several selections. Their drummer, Charles Hegarty, was the outstanding player.

The Operetta, "Trial by Jury," by Gilbert and Sullivan, was very well presented.

Angelina, the plaintiff, was suing Edward, the defendant, for breach of promise. The court was prejudiced against Edward, for whenever he sang, no one would listen to him.

When Angelina and her bridesmaids entered the courtroom, everyone immediately fell in love with them. The jurymen nearly tumbled out of their box in their attempt to get nearer the bride.

Angelina, desiring to win back her beloved Edward, sang of her great love for him. In return Edward told how he might thrash and kick her when he was "tipsy." The judge, therefore, offered to get him tipsy so they could perceive his actions. The counsel and plaintiff strongly objected to this.

Thereupon the judge said he could not waste any more time and sent the counsels and usher home, declaring he would marry her himself.

The cast included:

Angelina, the Plaintiff	Betty Young
Edward, the Defendant	David Brewer
Judge	John Dizer
Usher	William Burgess
Counsel for Plaintiff	Alton Blanchard
Counsel for Defendant	Robert Burns
Foreman of Jury	David Sjostedt

Senior Play

"Spring dance," three-act comedy by Philip Barry, author of "Death Takes a Holiday," was produced on June 10 by the Senior Class. Between the acts special musical numbers and "college stunts" were presented under the direction of Mr. Norman D. Loud.

The play, which was directed by Flora Haviland McGrath, had the following pupils in the cast: Arthur Desmond as John Hatton, known as Hat, a young humorous, likeable boy; William Gunn as the Lippincot, very cynical and contemptuous of women; Charles Sewall as Buck Buchanan, and Joseph Murphy as Doc Boyd, both carefree college boys; Helen Sullivan as Mady Platt, a bright, attractive girl, the authorized comedienne of the dormitory; Virginia Norton as Frances Fenn, extremely pretty, childlike, good-natured, and somewhat "dumb"; Barbara Kelso as Alex Benson, intense, vital, attractive; Mary Berry as Kate McKim, a serious, calm, judicious girl who is like a big sister to Alex; Anthony Caccavale as Professor Walter Beckett, brisk and assured; Martha Chipman as Sally Prescott, the prom trotter, dramatic and dashing; Scott George as Sam Thatcher, tall, good-looking, serious, and self-composed; Shirley Bicknell as Miss Ritchie, the prim New England house mother; Irene Meyer as Mildred, an independent-minded house-maid; Carmella Fogarty, Harriet Cate, Phyllis Hall, Betty Hearn, and Eileen Burrows as college girls.

The dialogue is extremely light with the background of a girls' sorority house. The plot centres around the love affair of Alex Benson and Sam Thatcher. Sam has his own ideas of life and they do not include marriage. The plot becomes thicker as Sam, influenced by the Lippincot, his caustic companion, plans to leave for Russia. Then Alex's friends, Kate, Sally, Mady, and Frances, go to work on Sam. The inevitable conclusion is reached when Sam, egged on by jealousy, seizes Alex and rushes out to get married.

An innovation, in the form of entertainment between the acts, was introduced and well liked this year. One half of the entertainment consisted of a swing band made up of August Calen, John Dizer, Arthur Vinal, Richard Wilbur, George Haviland, Robert Gay, Willard Hegarty, Charles Sewall, and Mildred Wood. They played Loch Lomond, Bei Mir Bist du Schön, The Old Apple Tree, Wabash Blues, The Shiek of Araby, and an original composition by George Haviland and Scott George, Railroad Blues. A senior group sang songs of the following colleges: Cornell, Navy, Holy Cross and Yale. The audience was invited to join in The Green Grass Grew All Around. One can well see that June 10 was appropriately called senior night.

Football

Weymouth's 1937 football team climaxed an excellent season of one tie, two defeats and six "wins", by beating Hingham seven to nothing.

Though this year we did not have a championship team, they showed in their playing the effects of Harry Arlanson's thorough coaching. They were a well co-ordinated body led by their co-captains, Botterud and Lukis. Injuries hit the team rather hard, and at different times both of our captains were unable to play for a number of games.

The Athletic Council, following its usual procedure, gave a banquet to all the letter men, and presented sweaters to the seniors. The seniors who received letters were: Cavallo, Caccavale, Clapp, Amerault, Hall, Braccia, Perrone, Miles, Botterud, Lukis, McFaun, Geever, Zeoli, Gunn, and also Mahoney. Three juniors received letters—Lysakowski, Regnier, and Crehan.

Baseball

UNDER the coaching of Mr. Harry Arlanson, the baseball team is having a fairly good season. So far the team has been victorious in only two out of six starts, but this is mainly due to the fact that the team didn't get as early a start as other schools and the hardest games were on the first part of the schedule.

The team was greatly handicapped by graduation last year with only a few of the regulars on the team returning. Those returning included Joe Crehan, Rab Slattery, Lloyd Smith, Larry McFaun and Stan Lukis.

The games the team has lost are to Brockton twice, 12 to 4 and 5 to 0, North Quincy, by the score of 8 to 5, and Braintree, 3 to 2. The games they have won are Whitman, by the score of 9 to 8, and Abington, 5 to 3. The team now looks forward to victories in the remaining 7 games.

The members of the squad are as follows: Pitcher: Stan Lukis, Larry McFaun, Charlie Sewall, and Callahan; Catchers, Captain Lloyd Smith, and Fred Slattery, First Base, Harold Buker; Second Base, Joe Crehan and Junie Fitzpatrick; Shortstops, Junie Harrington, and Harvey; Third Base, Junie Ventre; Outfielders, Rab Slattery, Dan Slattery, George Eacobacci and Bill Connell.

Orchestra

Last fall the orchestra was assembled under the direction of Mr. Calderwood. Due to the lack of violins, it has been a difficult task for the orchestra to play. Although the orchestra was small this year, it has played for many social and school activities, including the Teachers' Play, the Monday Club, the annual Monday Club Play, one of the Brainwey Plays, the High School Operetta and Revue, and the Senior Play.
Revue, and the Senior Play.

The following members have taken active part during the past year:

Paul Roche, Clarinet
Warren Loud, Clarinet
Martin Boraks, Trumpet
Robert Raymond, Trumpet
George Haviland, Trombone
Willard Hegarty, Drums
Mr. James W. Calderwood,
Ruth McKay, Violin
Robert Sargent, Violin
Phyllis MacDonald, Violin
Elinor Reidy, Cello
Louise Gardner, Piano

Band

This year was a most eventful one for the band. After adding a little color to most of the football games, it finished the season by presenting a satirical drama entitled "Highlights of Hingham" between the halves of that final tilt with Hingham—something new in school football. The credit for this exhibition, marching, and letter-forming goes to Mr. John Ghiorse and Mr. John Hunt who, of course, coached the fieldwork of the organization. After the football season was over, the members of the band learned that henceforth senior members would receive letters the same as senior participants in the sports. Later on the band was the guest of the Lions' Club at a chicken supper. The next public appearance was at the operetta and revue. Then came the Memorial Day exercises, where the band was led by the assistant conductor, George Haviland. It will finish the season at the graduation, led by the man whom you always connect with the Weymouth High School Band, Mr. James W. Calderwood, Jimmie to you.

Track

The Weymouth High track team unfortunately got off to a poor start this year by losing their first meet to a strong Rockland team. Weymouth again, though trying hard, was defeated by the powerful North Quincy squad.

Captain "Ed" Henley tied for a second place in the Broad Jump at New Hampshire, thus bringing Weymouth into the scoring column. In the next meet with Hingham, Weymouth found its stride and defeated Hingham 39½ to 37½. The South Shore Interscholastic meet brought another disappointment, Weymouth being forced to trail behind Milton and Braintree. Quincy then came to Legion field with a suprise defeat. However, with two remaining meets, the Weymouth track team, under the capable coaching of Mr. Page, hopes to end the season in blaze of glory.

The following members served actively during the 1938 season: E. Henley (captain), D. Ward, C. Raymond, R. Elsner, J. Glynn, J. Dillon, C. Hall, H. Hill, H. Vinal, R. Raymond, E. Johnson, M. Jannell, M. Sherman, J. Clark, G. Thomas, D. Sjostedt, W. Campbell, R. Webster, G. Donovan, J. Houghton, A. Sampson, and P. Logan.

Basketball

The Weymouth High basketball squad, under the able management of Coach Gannon, has finished another successful season. The team, playing its first game of the season, lost to Quincy by the close score of 24 to 16. After losing one more game, that being to Brockton, the team went ahead to win twelve consecutive games.

On account of this marvellous record Weymouth was invited to the "Tech Tournament" held at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Here, due to the nervousness of the players and the length of the court, Weymouth lost to Medford by the score of 34 to 28.

Fred Allan probably was the outstanding player on the team, scoring 215 points in 16 games. The other players deserve much credit, especially Skinny Clapp, Rabbit Slattery, Herbie Hill, and Captain Bill McCarthy. Allan also was named on the Tech Tournament Team.

Wrestling

This year the Weymouth High wrestling squad underwent a successful season, winning six of eight matches. Weymouth won first place in Class B and placed second in Class A at the Tufts Tournament. Three of our fellows received gold medals for state champions: Tim Desmond, 100 lbs. John Mehrman, 145 lbs.; and Jim Consentino, 155 lbs. Tucci took second place in the 126 lb. class, and Walt Stevens placed third in the 165, after losing to Carlton of North who outweighed him by 16 lbs. Paul McNulty, Kevin McGlynn, and Dick King were state champs in Class B.

In the regular matches Weymouth beat Quincy and Needham twice, Haverhill and Exeter, and lost to North Quincy twice. Weymouth was guest to a fine group of boys from Exeter Academy. The first team regulars were as follows: 100 lbs., Tim Desmond; 110 lbs., Belmont Trudell; 118 lbs., Captain Sjostedt; 126 lbs., Joe Tucci; 135 lbs., Vincent Cirigliano; 145 lbs., Louis Lysakowski and John Mehrman; 155 lbs., Jim Consentino; and 165 lbs., Walt Stevens and Kevin McGlynn. Charlie Hall was heavyweight. Charlie Sewell was manager and Mario Gatto was assistant manager. Dave Sjostedt lost his first match in three years to Bradley of North, but proved the better of the two when he returned the defeat by beating Bradley in the next match with North. Louis Lysakowski did his best work in filling out the 145 lb. class, left vacant by John Mehrman at the first of the year. Coach Stewart's fine coaching did much for the success of the team.

Golf

On June 3 the Golf team ended its second consecutive year under the leadership of Mr. Jones. At the South Shore Country Club they played against Canton High School. The team did not have as successful a season as last year. Many of the players were ineligible, but great improvement was shown at the end of the season by the team. After the first match, a victory for the opponents, the team defeated the highly-favored Framingham sextet. The team included Frank Pecoraro, Louis Abruzese, Fred Allan, William Cullivan, James Nolan, William Willinder, Vincent Cirigliano, and John Flynn.

Tennis

This year's team was comprised of Bud Goodale, Dick Wilbur, Ralph Sweeney, Philip Clement, Martin Griffin, Elmer Hollis, and Bill Garrity. There were no veterans left over from the preceding year, and the new team had to start from "scratch". The first half of the matches were lost by our enterprising team. However, the "tide of affairs" changed, showing the true mettle of our fellows, as they swept through the remaining part of the season, an undefeated team.

A fine foundation for the forthcoming season has been laid by our able and efficient coach, Mr. Bates, to whom we are very much indebted.

Best of luck for the next year's team.

Left to right: Doris Barnes, Jean Macafee, Cynthia Cowing, Helen Nolan, Edwina Barnes.

Girls' Tennis

In 1937, a Girls' Tennis Team was started under the supervision of Mr. Bates. As the year's team proved to be satisfactory, we are hoping for even more success in the future.

The team has played only one match thus far on account of poor weather conditions. At Legion Field, on May 4, 1938 a match was played between Weymouth and Scituate, which resulted in a score of 3-1 in favor of Scituate.

The team has prayed only one match thus far, on account of poor weather members of the team are:

Helen Nolan, Capt.
Cynthia Cowing
Louise Conroy
Jean Macafee
Edwina Barnes
Doris Barnes

First row: Eleanor Sullivan, Alice O'Connor, Esther Peterson, Helen Nolan, Ella Paine; Second row: Doris Nosiglia, Anna Connell, Dorothy Patten, Annis Pasteris, Valerie Tuttle.

Girls' Sports

As usual, interest in girls' sports at Weymouth High is steadily increasing. The fact that we have four major sports offers the girls a good choice from which to pick. If one earns three points a year, she receives first, the numerals "38", second the numbers "19", third the letter "W", and lastly she receives a star.

The season customarily opens with field hockey. This game is played at Clapp Memorial Field, and continues as late into the fall as the weather permits.

Basketball is the best attended game, both for players and spectators. The senior team this year was as follows:
Forwards: Captain Esther Peterson, Helen Nolan, Norma Ryan, Helen Sullivan, Doris Nosiglia, Alice O'Connor; Side Centres, Valerie Tuttle, Ella Paine; Guards, Dorothy Patten, Annis Pasteris, Jump Centre, Anna Connell.

Volley-ball is, perhaps, a minor sport. However, it offers a good opportunity for those who do not care for strenuous sports to participate in something.

This year track and indoor baseball have, as usual, been well attended.

First row: Mary Berry, Shirley Bicknell, Carmella; Second row: Scott George, Arthur Desmond, Mr. Martin, James Dempsey, Wilfred Savard.

Debating

The Debating Club completed another successful year under the guidance of Mr. Martin. The officers elected for 1937-1938 were:

President: Arthur Desmond
Vice-President: Shirley Bicknell
Secretary: Carmella Fogarty

Several inter-club debates were held at the beginning of the year. The debaters made their first outside appearance at Hingham. Here two Weymouth teams debated the pros and cons of "a unicameral legislation in the several states" with other teams in this district.

By virtue of their debating at Hingham the boys were entitled to compete at Fall River, in the Massachusetts Speech Tournament sponsored by the National Forensic League. The debaters who competed were:

Affirmative: Scott George, Wilfred Savard
Negative: Arthur Desmond, James Dempsey

Vocational Basketball

With a large turnout of boys willing to stay and practise after school hours Coach Jalmar Nelson began, in November, to mold his team from a nucleus of three veterans, Wyman, Jacobson and Newberg. Facing a stiff schedule, the team lost eight out of a fourteen-game schedule.

Starting the season off with a bang, the Vokes defeated the Alumni, 36 to 27, with Braccia starring for the Vokes and Ruscetta for the losers. Not doing so well in their second game, the Traders bowed to Randolph High with a score of 43 to 31, with Kennedy starring for the winners and "Shorty" Cushing high scorer for the Traders. Coming back with the old Trade School spirit, they defeated Holbrook High with a score of 37-30, Jacobson being the star. Likewise the Trade school took two from the Boston School for the Deaf. Later the Vokes lost two to Quincy, Waltham and Somerville. However, they defeated Holbrook and tied with Everett.

With Cushing, Grasso, Marsh and Carroll returning next year, prospects look bright for next season.

Student Council

The Student Council has successfully completed its seventh year.

It was organized by Mr. Whittle in 1931. At that time each room had two representatives, one boy and one girl. For greater efficiency the number was reduced to five from each class, in 1935. Assistants are either elected or appointed.

A system of rotary traffic has been adopted, to aid in the passing between periods.

This year the Council, with the aid of its faculty adviser, Mr. Lyons, has drawn up the first by-laws of the organization.

The Athletic Dance, given by the Student Council, was held on January 14. The proceeds of this entertainment went to help defray the athletic expenses.

The Maroon and Gold, published under the direction of Mrs. White, has proved itself to be of great value to the students.

The Student Council represents the student body as a whole. Its purpose is to co-operate with the teachers with the objective of maintaining the excellent reputation of the school.

Vocational Baseball

In April a large group of Trade baseball aspirants turned out at Coach J. K. Whittemore's call. With the return of several of last year's veterans, the prospects for a successful season look bright. The coach, Mr. Whittemore, has felt that lack of sufficient time to practise has been a detriment to the team in past years. Therefore, in an endeavor to remedy this situation, our school director, Mr. Whipple, has been allowing the team to leave school at 3:05 P.M. instead of 4:00 P.M.

Starting off the season at Randolph against Stetson High, the Trade School came from behind in the ninth inning and with a six-run surge nosed out Stetson High 11-10.

On May 2 Sumner High of Holbrook came to Weymouth, and by getting eight runs in the first inning, practically assured themselves of victory. The final score was 20-5 in favor of Sumner. On May 6th the Vokes lost an exciting, well-played game to Holbrook by a score of 6 to 4.

The game scheduled with Quincy Trade at Quincy for May 12 was played on May 16. Although Stella pitched brilliantly for the Vocational School boys, he was not supported in the pinches, and the team was defeated 10 to 3.

The last game played up to this writing was one scheduled with Somerville at Weymouth on March 24. This started out as a real ball game with the home team leading up to the sixth inning, when Somerville made two runs. At the beginning of the eighth inning the score was five to four in favor of the visiting team. However, at this time R. Chisholm of the visitors led an attack which netted them four runs, and in the ninth inning our defence collapsed completely. The final score was Somerville Vocational 19 and Weymouth 5.

Work of the Home Economics Department

Under the able supervision of Miss Williams, the Practical Arts girls have done the following work for the High School:

All the costumes for the operettas except the few hired ones;

Draperies, screens, and pillows for the teachers' room;

All the uniforms for the band;

Two hundred arm bands for the Student Council;

All coverings for solas and chairs for different plays;

All necessary sewing articles needed in the cafeteria.

Besides these things the girls have been taught to make all of their own clothing, dresses, coats, suits, and hats.

The Cooking Class under Miss Benson's direction, has been taught to cook all types of food, from very simple dishes to more difficult ones. In the first two years of cooking, students learn how to balance a meal properly, and in the third year, they carry out these things they have learned by giving luncheons and teas. The proper setting of the table and serving of the meal is an important part of the work. In the third year they have invalid cookery and learn the duties of a dietitian.

In the Hygiene Class, with Miss Stockwell as teacher, the class learns many points about the appreciation of health and a desire to build habits which safe guard it, and the prevention and control of disease. The care of children from the time they are babies until they reach the school age is studied, as well as many other useful things.

IN MEMORIAM

To Mrs. Helen C. Barnard

A kindly smile for everyone,
A helping hand to all,
Is what we all remember now,
After the final call.
Her never ending confidence
Was that which urged us on;
Her strong and earnest faith in us
Revealed to us the dawn.
And now, as we look back upon
The help she did bestow,
It makes us realize, at last,
How much to her we owe.

Class Will

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for the Senior Class to dissolve the educational bonds which have connected it with Weymouth High School, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature entitle it, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that said Class of 1938 bequeath the following:

To the Junior Class we leave our ingenuity and self-assurance.

To the Freshman Class we leave an extra supply of math paper on which to friendship.

To the Freshman Class we leave an extra supply of Math paper on which to figure out the trials and tribulations of further knowledge.

The President leaves his football ability to next year's team.

The Vice-President leaves his height to next year's President.

The Secretary leaves her charm and popularity to future class secretaries.

The Treasurer leaves her "pep" to needy juniors.

The Marshal leaves his quiet ways to some loud lower-classmen.

To Room 207 we leave some new windows with the hope that they will ever remain as such.

To Room 212 we leave a new leg to replace the missing one on the sculpture on the wall.

To Room 215 we leave a case of sunshine and cheer to be used at whatever moments it is necessary.

To Room 216 we leave a gold-rimmed tub to catch the raindrops which are ever creeping in.

To Room 217 we leave some new curtains, and may they always work perfectly.

To Room 218 we leave a stenographer to file the papers and to keep the books in place.

To Room 301 we leave a pencil sharpener and also a picture to decorate the walls.

To Room 304 we leave a plentiful supply of ink, and may it be sufficient to satisfy all needs.

To Room 306 we leave a full set of new furniture.

To the Student Council we leave a new and efficient set of by-laws.

To the band we express our sincere wishes that they may acquire new uniforms in the near future.

The Reflector Editor leaves her pleasing personality to be distributed among worthy pupils.

The Valedictorian leaves his seriousness and ability to the lower classmen.

The Salutatorian leaves some good Latin translations to ever be held as an example.

We are all sorry to hear that Miss Fannie L. Williams, our Domestic Science sewing teacher, is leaving us this year. In all the years that she has been in the High School, she has always been ready and willing to lend a helping hand when it was needed.

She has made many of the costumes, without which our plays and operettas could not have gone on. In order that we might have a band of which we could be proud, Miss Williams spent months making uniforms, trying them on the pupils, and making readjustments.

She is conscientious in all that she does, and spends hours on her work in order to have it nearly perfect.

Several years ago Miss Williams was awarded first prize in a national contest for her definition of home, which was:

"Home is a domestic sanctuary wrought out of desire — built into memory — where kindred bonds unite the family in sharing labors, leisure, joy and sorrow."

Notwithstanding many difficulties in the past few years, she has carried on her good work.

Although we are sorry to see Miss Williams leave, we know that she has richly deserved a rest, and we sincerely hope that her troubles will cease and that she may look forward to a much brighter future.

Class Poem

With its head held high and its footsteps firm,
Time marches on!
And with it wearily
The old generation bows low its head,
Yields its burden to the new.

Such is the fateful destiny of man.
Youth may take up that load,
Stagger under its weight and slowly sink
Into the deep abyss,
Lost in the chaos of worldly affairs;

Or it may fling the weight
Easily to its shoulders and start up
The narrow path of life,
Which guide it on its way until it reaches,

Holding on high ideals,
With its head held high and its footsteps firm,
At last, its ultimate goal,
The terminal of the path to success.
